

RV Rentals— An Alternative to Airline add-on fees

Recreation Vehicle Industry Association e-Highway Newsletter June 2010

With the summer vacation season approaching and airlines announcing additional passenger fees, RV rentals are looking more attractive than ever.

RVs eliminate airline passenger fees for luggage, fuel surcharges, meals and in-flight entertainment, while helping travelers avoid interminable flight delays and airport gridlock.

With an RV, travelers don't have to pay for in-flight meals, snacks, baggage or extra legroom. They can bring whatever they want onboard an RV, from champagne to shampoo, to their own movies and favorite pet. And there's plenty of storage space for hauling souvenirs and toys.

"Travelers leave all the hassles behind when they go by RV," says Richard Coon, president of the Recreation Vehicle Industry Association. "What they don't leave behind are all the comforts of home."

With fully equipped kitchens, living rooms, bedrooms and baths, RV travelers enjoy all the familiar amenities while on the road. They can bring their own sheets and pillows and even cook a gourmet meal onboard.

Affordability is another big advantage of RV rentals. Costs vary depending on the season and size of the unit, and range from $100-$250 per day. RV rentals can sleep as many as six people comfortably.

Even in a down economy, RV rentals remain popular. For example, El Monte RV and Cruise America, two of the world's largest RV rental agencies, are reporting strong bookings throughout the summer.

"In this economy, the affordability of RV vacations is especially attractive whether you rent or own," says Coon. "And there's never been a better time to buy." Renting an RV is a popular way to try before you buy. There are more than 460 RV rental outlets nationwide and 16,000 public and privately owned campgrounds.

For more information on this topic visit www.trailerlifedirectory.com

SCHEID'S 2010 RENTAL RATES

Travel Trailer	$600 for 7 nights	Additional $85/night after 7 nights
	$120 per night for 3-6 nights	(3 night minimum)
Pop-up Trailer	$475 for 7 nights	Additional $65/night after 7 nights
	$100 per night for 3-6 nights	(3 night minimum)

ECO Bricks®

They are RV perfect! Fits in all storage areas!

The ECO Bricks® can be burned in fireplaces, wood stoves, camp fires or any place that would normally burn cord wood. The bricks are packaged to make them easy to store and transport.

ECO Bricks® are made mostly of hard woods. They burn hotter (from 9,000 to 14,000 BTU's per brick depending on the species of hardwood), longer, and with less smoke than cord wood. Plus ECO Bricks® emit fewer particles into the air, while leaving less ash. There are no additives, such as glue or harmful chemicals, in ECO Bricks®.

Check out
www.trucnrv.com for more information on products and sales!

Are You Ready For Unexpected Power Outages At Your Campsite?

Scheid's is offering an amazing power generating system that can provide plenty of electrical power in the event of an outage or emergency. And the best part is that you can have the power safely in your RV.

These solar power generators:

- produce up to 18000 watts of CONTINUOUS electricity ON DEMAND for RVs and campers
- are completely portable
- no noise
- no fumes
- recharges itself AND BEST OF ALL....
- Generate FREE electricity
- Call Scheid's for more info!